From the New York Gazette, April 21.

VERY LATE NEWS.

By the very fast sailing ship Comet, Capt. Center, in 36 days from Havre, the editors of the New York Gazette have received Paris papers to the 10th of March, containing London dates to the 5th. They give from these papers, several interesting items.

Among the papers, we have the London Courier of the 20th of February, which contains two Reports of the Committees of Secrecy, both of which were presented to the House of Commons. The general features of these reports are similar. The Lord's Committee express their full conviction that designs destructive of the Constitution, "have been extended, and are still extending, widely in many other parts of Great Britain."

The disaffected adopted the different forms and symbols of the French revolution; and that the revolution they meditated was, if possible, more sweeping and immediate in its effects. They meant to begin by depriving every man of his landed and funded property, to declare all the land in common, and to extinguish the funds. Nor was the religion of the country to be more respected. They meant to recite profane parodies of the liturgy, or songs blaspheming the Holy Scriptures.—One of their handbills expressed, "all constables who touch a man of us to be run through. No Regent—no Castlereagh—off with their heads—no placemen, tithes, or inclosures—no bishops." The symbols of revolution, the tri-coloured flag and the red cap of France, were adopted here, as well as the names of the revolutionary committees; they had their committee of public safety and the conservative committee. To the soldiers they had by a second determination, resolved to adopt the means of seduction. But the first plan and impulse was the murder of the soldiers by midnight. The report to the commons inform, that "the design was by a sudden rising in the dead of the night, to surprise and overpower the soldiers in their different barracks, which were to be set on fire." Arms were procured; a large quantity of pike heads ordered; and a machine projected for clearing the streets of cavalry. The prisons were to be drained; and the murderer and the felon, and the criminals of all descriptions were to be let loose upon the metropolis with arms. The general rising was fixed for the 2d of December.

The committee then show the intimate connexion between the clubs in London and the clubs in the country. The Commons committee do not decide what measures are necessary to be adopted; but they conclude by stating, that the dangers which exist are of such a nature, that the utmost vigilance of the government, under the existing laws, has been found inadequate to prevent them.

The Habeas Corpus Act has been suspended in England.

The bill against the seditious assemblies had its second reading in the House of Commons on the 3d of March, and bills have passed relative to the seduction of the soldiery, and concerning treason.

On the 4th of March, the House of Commons received an extraordinary number of petitions for Parliamentary reform. They contained nearly a million signatures. The chief part of the petitions were presented by Sir Francis Baring.

A letter had been received by the Agent at Lloyd's, dated Madeira, February 7, stating that all the Portuguese merchantmen bound for Lisbon, had been detained in consequence of the Island being infested with insurgent privateers.

The expense of the British army in France for one year, is estimated at ten millions, thirty thousand, six hundred and three pounds sterling.

The weather had been uncommonly mild in Europe. The Gazette de Lausanne of the first of March, mentions that the spring was so far favorable. Agriculture and gardening were already commenced, and that intelligent agriculturalists predicted an abundant year.

A Paris paper of the 2d March states, that an American frigate remained before Palermo to attend, as was believed, to the ratification of the arrangements concluded between the court of Naples and the United States.

From the Wilmington, (N. C.) Recorder of April 5.

A circumstance happened in this town, which we believe cannot find a counterpart in the civilized world. A man, calling himself Ronald Francis Murray, came to Wilmington about eight months since, under apparent pecuniary embarrassments, and was received by the community with that open confidence and hospitality so common and so natural amongst the citizens of the south. He was a man of much literary information, and by his dialect, and by his own account, believed to be a Scotchman; although he was capable of assuming almost any character, as the event will show. He first established himself in the good opinion of the heads of one of the most respectable commercial houses in this place, by his assiduity and attention to business, and became we understand the first agent of the counting room.

Meantime, a general approbation came from every quarter, of the excellent talents of the sojourner, and all endeavoured to bring comfort to the "exile!" He became an inmate of a family (the name of which delicacy forbids us to mention) of the first standing and of acknowledged piety and honor. A confiding father gave a daughter to his arms.—A daughter whose age did not exceed sixteen; and on whom her anxious parents had bestowed an education commensurate to her rank in life, and which her natural innocence and virtue deserved. He had been married about six weeks, when after forgeing the names of those who had first given him sustenance, and selling a false check to the man who had given him his child, he clandestinely departed, leaving despair and grief in the mansion where he met hospitality and love; and astonishment and hatred in circles where he found respect and friendship.—The crimes of which he has been guilty, as concerns the pecuniary affairs of individuals are virtues when compared with the deadly blow he has given to domestic happiness and social intercourse. He has extended the hand of friendship, but friendship startles at the recollection of him.—The blooming hopes of beauty will shrivel at the mention of his name, and parental affection will be tortured with a jealousy that will keep the virtuous and sincere asunder. To form a just idea of the conduct of Murray, reason must resign herself to imagination, and search for all that is base and infamous—language cannot speak of him as he is.

RAISING THE WHISKEY.

In 1812, when our government sent seamen from the Atlantic to the lakes (subsequently the scenes of American superior naval prowess) the first detachment of jolly tars were landed at Albany, and conveyed from thence to the Niagara frontier in waggons. Many of those men endowed with more bravery than wordly prudence, were destitute of cash, so that a resort to ingenuity became indispensable, whenever they wanted to raise an additional glass of grog. The novelty of their appearance, combined with their peculiar oddities and nautical phrases, rendered it no difficult matter; during the first few days of their inland voyage, to levy contributions of whiskey on the inn-keepers—they would quaff the juice of the rye—bid the landlord to keep a good look-out astern for the commissary, tell him how much liquor they had drank, and he would pay for all.

After a lapse of five or six days this traverse would not work—a report of it had travelled in advance, and the landlords had adopted a rule of touch penny before you touch pot. One day a sailor, of more than ordinary whim, sauntered into a tavern, resolved to try a new expedient—he observed the landlord rigidly requiring the deposit of the money before he would deliver the liquor—not appalled by this precautionary measure, although he was perfectly "staverless," Jack carelessly walked to the bar, when the following dialogue ensued.

Jack. Landlord, have you got any crackers?

Landlord. Yes, sir.

Jack. Well, let's have sixpence worth.

The landlord's caution was lulled into security by the sailor's not asking for liquor, and he delivered the crackers without first requiring the money.

Jack, looking at and turning the crackers in his hand. Now that I have got 'em I don't think I can eat 'em, Landlord, won't you give me something else for these crackers.

Landlord. Yes, sir, what do you wish instead?

Jack. How muck whiskey will you give me for 'em?

Landlord. A gill.

Jack. It's a bargain—here take the crackers.

The landlord gave Jack the whiskey, which he drank and walked towards the door.

Landlord. Stop, sir, you hav'nt paid me for the whiskey.

Jack. Did'nt I give you the crackers for it?

Landlord. Very well—but you did'nt pay me for the crackers.

Jack Why, hav'nt you got your crackers back again, you land-lubber, and what more do you want. Ind. Balance.

 The Citizens and Traders of Pitts gh, who are interested and are disposed promote the intercourse by waggons he- een this place and Philadelphia, are re- ested to meet at the Pittsburgh Hotel ood Street, to morrow afternoon at seven clock.

We have received the first number of e INDEPENDENT BALANCE, a paper con- cted by Mr. George Hembold, of Phila- lphia, the first editor of the Tickler—Its lumns display much of the vis scribendi, d promise to the lovers of fun no incon- derable degree of rational amusement.

It would seem (says the True American) at the Virginians claim the right of com- anding the services of a citizen, in the pacity of a representative, with or with- t his consent. They have re-elected eneral Tucker against his own consent. the county of Charlotte, the only one, the district lately represented by Mr. andolph, yet heard from, the electors ve supported Mr. Randolph notwith- anding his declension, and gave him a jority over the avowed candidate. It not improbable Mr. Randolph will be -elected.

NEW YORK APRIL, 22.

The elegant piece of brass ordnance nded on Buchanan's wharf, west side of tiger's slip, was brought from Virginia, here it has remained in the bottom of York River since the American revolution. It was lately raised by means of a diving bell, in four fathoms' water, partly imbed- ded in the sand. It appears to be no way injured, corroded or incrusted, by lying between thirty and forty years on the san- dy bottom of the river. It is stated to have been lost before or about the taking of Corn- wallis at York, by General Washington. The slings gave way while lowering the cannon into a scow, intended to convey it to the shore; but its enormous weight burst the scow asunder, and went to the bottom.

Upon examining the piece, it was found to measure 11 feet 10 inches in length, and its calibre capable of carrying a 32 pound ball.

It is elegantly carved about the butt and other places, and contains several inscrip- tions and devices. On the upper part, near the muzzle, are the words, "Le Di- vertissant," which appears to have been meant as a name for the piece, and may be properly translated, The Sportsman— Below that, are the Latin words, "Ultima ratio regum," royal logic, or literally translated, The last resort of kings. Fur- ther on is inscribed, "Le Mareschal De Humieres," with a coat of arms, probably of that general. Beneath that are the Latin words "Pluribus nec impar." This inscription would seem to convey the value of ordnance when compared with small arms, and would therefore be considered, by translation, as Equal to many small arms. Around the butt of the cannon are carved the words, "Kelieri Tiguro, Helve- ti F. Duair 1680," which may be render- ed thus: "Keller Tigure, (or Tigurus) of Switzerland, made this piece of ordnance at Douay, in 1680.

By these inscriptions, it appears that the piece is 137 years old, and was cast by a Swiss at the celebrated foundery of Douay, in the French Netherlands. estab- lished by Lewis the 14th, when in the heighth of his glory, he endeavoured to subjugate and control all Europe. Hu- mieres was one of his generals, and proba- bly from the esteem of his sovereign, had the liberty of inscribing his name upon this piece, attached to his division of the army. Marshal Humieres was beat at Walcourt, in 1689, by the allied armies under the prince of Waldee.

SAMUEL AKERLY.

Since writing the above, the cannon has been removed to the coffee house. It is worthy the attention of the state or the United States, and ought to be purchased by one or other of them.

There is every expectation of apprehen- ding the villain who robbed a waggon at Burlington, N. J. of a box of specie. It has been ascertained, that after securing the box, he stole a boat, and with his plun- der crossed to the Pennsylvania shore, at a late hour of the night. He hid the box, in a wood; and then repaired to a tavern in Bristol; where he engaged a man with a horse and chair to bring him to Phila- delphia. telling him that he had been too late for the steam boat, and had left a small box on the road which they would take up on their way. When he came to the neighborhood of the place, where he had deposited the box of specie, he was unable to trace the spot. Accordingly he knocked up one of the domestics, and after describing the place, readily found the stolen treasure. He then proceeded to Holmesburg, where, it appears, he opened the box, and took out part of its contents, to pay for a handsome supper. About 2 o'clock on that day he alighted in the north- ern liberties, and after paying his driver carried away his plunder. A woman was yesterday morning apprehended on suspi- cion of being concerned in this transaction, in consequence of her offering 200 or 300 Spanish dollars for sale: and it is most probable that the villain will be taken.— From the information we have received, we are inclined to believe that he is an old accomplished offender.

NB. Since the above, we learn that Elijah Bowen, the associate of Mrs. Car- son, is supposed to be the author of this robbery, and that vigilant search is making after him.

We have just learnt that the above Eli- jah Bowen, has been apprehended. He was taken in the house of his father, in Elfrith's alley, and a principal part of the stolen property recovered. It is needless to add, that he has been committed to jail.

COLD WEATHER.

Extract of a letter from Bangor, (Maine) dated April 4, 1817.

"Snow here in the woods is three feet deep, on a level, and it continues to freeze every night hard."

WATERTOWN, (N. Y.) March 31.

Parricide.—Three persons have lately been arrested in Lewis County for the murder of a Mr. Waggoner. This murder was committed in the summer of 1815, in the town of Denmark—the circumstances which led to the detection of these persons we have not heard. One of the persons ap- prehended for this horrid crime, is Wag- goner's son. And his accomplices are his wife, and a man by the name of Buck.— Buck has confessed his guilt and, shocking to relate, that young Waggoner's wife was the instigator. Her resentment to her father in-law arose from his having detec- ted her and Buck in criminal intercourse.

Extract of a letter, dated Rio Janeiro, January 22.

"Two Russian ships, the Suwarrow, Capt. Punfudora, of 500 tons, and the Rose, Capt Hayemoiter, of 700 tons, sai- led from this place for the Pacific Ocean two days before my arrival. I shall soon follow them.

"When the royal family are passing here, all must take off their hats—if on horseback, dismount. Lord ——. former- ly the English minister here, on the royal family's passing refused to dismount—the king's guard immediately forced him from his horse. Mr. Sumpter, our American consul, refused to dismount; and being armed with his pistols, he told the guard he would shoot any one who attempted to arrest him. He got away from them, and continued mounted, being more resolute than the Englishman.—Since this affair, his majesty has issued a decree, which de- clares that dismounting is not required of foreigners, but only to take off their hats, which no doubt will be readily acceded to."—*Balt. PARIS, Feb. 7.

The disputes between the Jews and the city of Frankfort are not yet terminated. The Diet has referred the Jews to the Se- nate, and the Senate has sent them to the legislative body, where, it is supposed, their claims will be heard.

It appears by the letter received in Par- is from Port Louis, in the Island of France, that the late dreadful fire there was aggravated by the insubordination of the negroes and soldiers. The latter, in particular, armed themselves against those who wished to extinguish the flames, and actually cut the hose and pipes asunder which were conveying the water to the en- gines, in order that they might plunder with more effect.—Many of these wretches perished in the flames, in a state of intox- ication.

GENOA, Jan. 23

We learn from Algiers that the Dey re- views his troops daily, and exercises his cannoniers in the roads. He has purcha- sed great quantities of warlike stores and arms.

The Genuine Japan Varnish.
FOR BOOTS, SHOES, &c.
J. BYRNE,

Respectfully informs his friends and the public, that he has commenced the manu- facture of the real JAPAN VARNISH for boots, shoes, carriage harnes- sing, ladies morrocco shoes, &c.

This inestimable composition unrivalled for its superior excellence, as well as being be- neficial to the leather, produces the most beauti- ful and shining jet black ever beheld.

Its qualities have perhaps never before been concentrated in any other composition. It acts as an emolient, rendering the leather soft, pliant and durable—Is not subject to turn foetid as other compounds do—Is suitable to all climates and seasons—When polished, will not soil the whitest linen, and the cost of purchase is four- fold repaid in the durability imparted to the lea- ther by the lubricating quality of the Varnish.

Gentlemen sensible of the good effects of per- sonal appearance will give this a decided prefe rence to any thing ever before offered to the pub- lic.

The Japan Varnish is put up in Jars at 50 cents each, with proper directions for using, with the makers name affixed in his own chirograph to the label on each jar, and sealed on the cork with wax impressed with the initials J. B.

Sold at Byrne's Umbrella manufactory, Fourth street—Pittsburgh—where all orders will be gratefully received and punctually executed and a liberal allowance given to retailers.

The above Scheme of the Fourth Class of the State Lottery, is respectfully offered to the public, under the impression that it will not only be acceptable, but attractive, for almost every day in the whole Lottery, yields a high Prize, independent of Six Capitals, which are floating, and liable to be drawn on any day of drawing.

The object of this Lottery is to aid in the improvement of the Internal Navigation of the State of Pennsylvania, and was authorised by the Legislature expressly for that purpose. It is for the interest of the state generally, and more particularly those of the city of Philadelphia, that it should succeed. It may be hoped, therefore, that all who feel friendly to the object of this Lottery, will buy a ticket in the same, and such as should not be so fortunate as to draw prizes, will at least enjoy the satisfaction of having contributed their aid to the advancement of a most laudable undertaking.

The Lottery will commence drawing on or before the 30th June next, and be continued three days in each week 500 numbers a day, until completed. The Prizes will be paid sixty days after the drawing is finished, subject to a deduction of 15 per cent.—to secure the payment of which, a bond in the sum of One Hundred Thousand Dollars is lodged with the Secretary of the Commonwealth.

Commissioners appointed by the Governor to superintend the Drawing:

GEORGE LATIMER, Esq.
ISAAC WORRELL, Esq.
THOMAS LEIPER, Esq.
JOHN CONNELLY, Esq. and
